GRANDFATHER OF RACING SHELLS RECOVERED

Oxford University Boat Club Regains Possession of Historic Rowing Barge of 1829.

(By Associated Press)
New York, Jan. 24.—The Oxford University Boat club has regained possession of the rowing barge in which the Oxford crew of 1829 rowed and won the first inter-varsity race against Cambridge university on the Thames river near London on June 10, 1829. The boat, which is 40 feet long and 4 feet 1 inch wide at the middle, is constructed of nine streak or lap boards, a keel and a gunwale. A long plank runs the length of the center of the boat and the thwart are supported by single upright iron staves. The heavier material is spruce, the smaller ribs ash, and the main timbers oak. The thole pins are narrow and the oarsmen sat at the extreme opposite end of the seat in rowing.

The boat was used for a number of succeeding races, and some ten years later was stored in an old bathhouse at Oxford as unfit for further use. In 1841 Sir Robert Menzies, then a student and oarsman at Oxford, purchased the boat and had it shipped to Loch Lomond. There the historic grandfather of all racing shells remained until his death when it was sold with other relics of Castle Menzies. Thus after seventy years the primitive racing craft has returned

SANTA FE TO MAKE CHANCE TO AID A LOW RATE FOR K. P. JUBILEE

Albuquerque Lodge Arranging to Entertain the Visiting Knights from All Parts of State on February 19th.

The arrangements committee of the Knights of Pythias, in charge of plans for the big jubilee to be held here February 19th, in recognition of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the order, held a meeting yesterday afternoon with W. B. Brown, division passenger and freight agent of the Santa Fe, at which a request was made for special rates to Albuquerque from all points in New Mexico for the celebration.

Mr. Brown agreed to recommend the special rate, which means that it will be granted. The special rate of one and one-third fare is expected to increase materially the number of visitors.

The celebration, planned originally as a local one, has now assumed full statewide proportions. There are twenty-seven Knights of Pythias lodges in New Mexico, with a total of more than two thousand active members. Each lodge will have delegates at the state celebration and from the nearby lodges large delegations are expected.

The formal program, which will be open to the public, will be held in the theater. There will be special ceremonies in the lodge rooms and a number of social features will be added for the entertainment of the visitors.

Farmers, mechanics, railroad laborers, rely on Dr. Thomas' Electro Oil. Fine for cuts, burns, bruises should be kept in every home. 25¢ and 50¢.

Yale is second with four firsts and four seconds, and Cornell third with two firsts and four seconds.

ZEIDER TURNS DOWN $4,000 SALARY AT NEW YORK

Baseball Prize Reputed to Have Joined Chicago Federals Rejects Offer of Americans; Many Stars Signing.

(By Leased Wire to Evening Herald.)
Chicago, Jan. 24.—Kolle Zeider, who is reported to have joined the Chicago Federals, refused an offer of $4,000 salary to sign with the New York Americans. Zeider wanted $55,000 and a chance to play third, but Arthur Irwin, representing the Yankees, would not grant the difference in money nor, with Macfie's prospects of another good year at third, would he promise Zeider an opening there. These facts were given out today by Irwin. Reports that Catcher Sweeney of the same

PAST YEAR PROSPEROUS:

BUSINESS OUTLOOK GOOD

Perhaps above any other class of business men, the wholesale grocers are best able to gauge accurately the condition of business in this section. Their figures are on the very pulse of the people, the food supply, and they are in a position to know. The heads of the grocery trade in the state here today are unanimous in their attitude of confidence as regards the business outlook for the coming year. From all parts of the state they bring encouraging reports of prosperous conditions in mines and on the range and farm, and of a general renewal of business activity.

"While the volume of business done by our house in 1912 was not as great as in some past years in our history," said one of the leaders this morning, "it was one of the most satisfactory years we have ever had. I should say that taking the year as a whole, buying was careful and conservative, reflecting the general feeling of caution which existed throughout the country. But with the beginning of the New Year the volume of buying has shown a marked increase. There is a pretty unanimous feeling of confidence in the immediate future. There is every reason for this confidence in so far as state conditions are concerned and I can see very little in the outlook that is not reassuring."

This, from one of the most conservative of New Mexico business men, and one who at this time a year ago was shrouded in gloom—due, his close friends say, to certain regrettable election results—is not only encouraging itself, but is repeated in substance and with emphasis, by practically all of his associates in the wholesale grocery trade.

Among the grocers who arrived last night and this morning are Frank P. Jones of Jones-Downs and Co., Silver City; Harry W. Kelly and Clarence Ide of Gross, Kelly & Co., Las Vegas and Santa Fe; C. E. Earickson of Picou, N. M.; M. W. Browns of Las Vegas; C. F. Remsherg of Raton; C. N. Cotton of Gallup. The Albuquerque men attending are Wilmet H. Booth of Gross, Kelly & Co.; Max Nordhaus and D. Weller, of the Charles Ulfeld Co.; E. E. Putney, M. H. Sabin.

Officers Re-elected.

The grocers this morning re-elected last year's officers, as follows: President—Harry W. Kelly; Vice President—Frank P. Jones; Secretary and Treasurer—M. W. Browne.

Bell, 602 South Third street. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery. Mr. Kemmerle was a brother of Mrs. Bell, Mrs. L. White of Albuquerque, Mrs. F. O. Douglass of Trinidad, Colo., and Mrs. F. E. club had gone to Buffalo to talk with the Federal leaders of that city were denied and the appearance here today of H. T. Carroll, the Buffalo banker, and Manager Larry Schlueter bore out the denial. Neither of the Buffalo men had any announcement to make.

Much speculation followed the arrival at Federal league headquarters of a large envelope addressed to Charles Weegham, the local manager of Charles Ebbets, of the Brooklyn Nationals. Weegham was expected at the headquarters later in the day. Harry Johnson of Chicago has accepted terms as umpire in the National league. Johnson was with the Three League last year and with the Western league in 1912.

The signed contract of "Tex" Russell, pitcher, was received at the office of the Chicago American league club. He said he will receive a splendid increase in salary and that his contract is for three years.

Ward Miller, former Cub outfielder, today admitted at his home in Dixon, Ill., that he had signed with the St. Louis Federal league club. He said he will receive a splendid increase in salary and that his contract is for three years.

BIG WHOLESALE MEN IN CONFERENCE HERE TODAY

New Mexico Wholesale Grocers' Association Meets in Regular Winter Session to Discuss Trade Conditions.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK IS GENERALLY GOOD

The New Mexico Wholesale Grocers' association is in session in Albuquerque today, for its annual mid-winter meeting for the election of officers, discussion of business conditions generally and the wholesale grocery outlook in particular. As usual rate questions are occupying a considerable portion of the attention of the men who dominate the chief mercantile business of the state. Representatives of all the wholesale and jobbing houses of New Mexico are in attendance.

ALBUQUERQUE HAS NEXT TO LEAST RAINFALL

By Far the Dryest Spot in Elevated Part of State According to Weather Man's 1913 Report; Year Unusually Cool.

General Summary, New Mexico Section, Year 1913.

The mean temperature of New Mexico for the year 1912, was 56.9, or 16 degrees below the normal, as determined by the monthly means and departures. The year 1912 averaged slightly colder, but, with this exception, the year just closed was the coldest of record. Compared with 1912, 1913 was 0.4 warmer, but it was almost 2 degrees colder than 1911. With the exception of May and November each month of the year averaged below the normal, the deficiency running from one to two inches or more, while northern, southern, southwestern and the eastern tier of counties averaged above the normal—the excess in the northeast counties running from 2 to 4 inches.

Albuquerque had a smaller

February, April and September slight above, while May, July, August and October were far below. May, especially proving a very dry month. A large part of the state averaged below the normal—all of the central part of McKinley, Valencia and Socorro eastward to Guadalupe, western Chaves and western Eddy, including most of Otero county, averaged below the normal, the deficiency running from one to two inches or more, while northern, southern, southwestern and the eastern tier of counties averaged above the normal—the excess in the northeast counties running from 2 to 4 inches.

All of which substantiates Albuquerque's claim to having the dryest of New Mexico's dry climates.

The mean temperature of New Mexico for the year 1912, was 56.9, or 16 degrees below the normal, as determined by the monthly means and departures. The year 1912 averaged slightly colder, but, with this exception, the year just closed was the coldest of record. Compared with 1912, 1913 was 0.4 warmer, but it was almost 2 degrees colder than 1911. With the exception of May and November each month of the year averaged below the normal, the deficiency running from 0.1 degree in August to 4 degrees in January. The latter month, along with March and September were the coldest months of record in New Mexico. The deficiency of San Juan, Rio Grande and Sacramento valleys averaged about 16 inches; the Pecos valley, the southwest the northwest and the central plateau averaged from 16 to 15 inches; the northeast counties and eastern border counties from 15 to 29 inches, and the mountain area of the north, the central, the southern and the southwest from 29 to 35 inches. The greatest amount was 22.5 inches at Anchor Mine, near the crest of the range in northern Taos county. No other station exceeded 29 inches, although several exceeded 25 inches. The least annual amount was 6.58 inches at Lanark, southwest Dona Ana county, closely followed by 6.67 at Albuquerque, and 6.59 at San Marcial. Nearly two dozen stations had less than 16 inches of precipitation during the year. The greatest monthly amount was 11.64 inches at old Fort Union in June and the greatest in any 24 hours 5 inches at Portales on the 12th of the same month. June was the wettest month of the year, with an average of 3.99 inches, while May was the driest, with an average of only 0.33 inch. There was an average of 57 days with 0.64 inch of moisture precipitation.

The highest annual mean temperature was 61.5 degrees at Carlsbad, and the highest recorded temperature

199 degrees at Carlsbad and Blanding on the 13th of July. The first two weeks of July were the hottest of the year, and maximum temperatures above 100 degrees were recorded each day at many points in the lower southern valleys, but the 13th was probably the hottest day of the year.

Temperatures of the degrees or higher were recorded each month from May to September, inclusive, at some of the stations in the lower valleys of the state. July was the warmest month of the year, with an average days and 27 cloudy days. At Santa Fe 22 per cent of the total possible sunshine was recorded; and at Roswell 69 per cent. The winds of the year were prevailing southwesterly, and not so great a movement as either
